Patient Name: _____
DOB: _____

Introduction

Delaware County Professional Services providers often use Telehealth and related technologies to facilitate the delivery of healthcare services.

Telehealth involves the use of electronic communications to enable health care providers and patients at different locations to share individual patient medical information for the purpose of improving patient care. Providers may include psychiatrists, psychologist, nurse practitioners, therapists , primary care practitioners, specialists, and/or subspecialists. The information may be used for diagnosis, therapy, follow-up and/or education, and may, but not necessarily, include any of the following: medical images, instant messaging, chat, telephone and/or email conversations, patient medical records, live two-way audio and video, and output data from medical devices and sound and video files.

Expected Benefits

- Improved access to medical care by enabling a patient to remain at a remote site while the practitioner obtains test results and consults from healthcare practitioners at distant/other sites.
- More efficient medical evaluation, treatment and management.
- Obtaining expertise of a distant specialist.

Possible Risks

As with any medical procedure, there are potential risks associated with the use of Telehealth. These risks include, but may not be limited to:

- In rare cases, information transmitted may not be sufficient (e.g., poor resolution of images) to allow for inappropriate medical decision-making by the practitioner.
- Delays in medical evaluation and treatment could occur due to deficiencies or failures of the equipment. In the event that there is an equipment or technological failure during a Telehealth encounter, you should call the following phone number for instructions from your practitioner on how to receive followup or ongoing care: _____
- In rare cases, a lack of access to complete medical records may result in adverse drug interactions or allergic reactions or other judgment errors.
- In the event of adverse events or unexpected reaction to treatment that may occur during or after you Telehealth encounter, you should follow up with your primary care physician or emergency room, if applicable, or you may call your practitioner at the following phone number for any nonurgent issues: _____. Telephone calls will be returned within 72 hours.
